NEWSPAPER ARTICLE WRITING(2023-2024)

BEFORE WRITING

Students are asked to work in pairs / individual to read and summarize an article that interests them / him / her in their own words. Each pair / individual then reports back to the class about the article they read the same day or the following day. Students also list words or phrases that are not known to them while summarizing newspaper article.

As I mentioned earlier about the importance of writing skills for student individual, newspaper article writing, an activity based on newspaper was held by the students throughout 2023-2024 by taking the suggestions. A total of 65 students from first year degree have reviewed articles in the newspaper.

2.Organised Skill

Games for Olympic sports organized by the International Olympic Committee.

ATHLETICISM

Sports is generally accepted as a system of activities based on organized orientation of physical training with major competitions such as Olympic games admitting only sports meeting other organizations such as Council of Europe's sporadic without a physical element from classification as sports. However, a number of competitive but non-physical activities also recognition as most sports.

The International Olympic Committee recognizes both those and bridge as benefit sports, and spontaneously, the International sports Federation association recognition from non-sporting sports & bridge, chess, checkers and darts and Margot, and the truth the number of related games which can be admitted as sports.

Sports is usually governed by a set of rules or customs which serve to ensure fair competition and allow social and organization of the sports.

FI 2023 season to begin with Bahrain GP on March 5

Winning can be determined by physical events such as technical performance in athletic competition.

Sportspersons play to win, but they must do it with sportsmanship and respect. Moral values are as good as game to stay upright.

Eliminating junk, anything, is the only thing.

Sportspersons express an aspiration of ours that the activity will be enjoyed to the maximum by the maximum number of others. Sports journalist Ravi Rao said, "not that you won or lost but how you played the game" and the modern Olympic creed expressed by its founder Pierre de Coubertin, "the most important thing is not winning but taking part" are typical expressions of the statement.

Australia's Stephen Smith was known for "grindulence" by the way he used to make the ball spin. In the 2003 World Cup semi-final, just a few days after his team had been beaten in all the tests that year, he said, "I think I did better, but the crowd have even given me a noise, so every time, if I had the chance, I'd have done it again."

3. .The less-known Buddhist links of Visakhapatnam

A view of the Dhamek and the 60-pole vihara complex, one of the earliest Buddhist sites in Thambapatti. The Dhamek is a massive stupa, the tallest stupa standing within the city walls.

The surrounding evidence provided by the relics, heritage sites and monuments found in and around the city, establishes that it was a major Buddhist centre and a seat of learning of Buddhism.

Though Visakhapatnam is described as a 'sleepy fishing village', the surrounding evidence provided by the relics, heritage sites and monuments found here and in Anakapelli nearby establish that it was a major Buddhist centre.

of Anaka the emperor, had situated two Jain monasteries there to encourage the people to abandon their religion and the king ordered the famous Bellapuri Sealing to be taken from this location. After some time he came back from Thotlakonda, he said.

This site came into light during an aerial surveying by the Indian Navy for setting up a signal station. After its discovery, major excavations were conducted by the Andhra Pradesh state Archaeology Department from 1988 to 1993.

Findings from Excavations

The relevant evidence provided by the relevant authorities and monasteries there revealed the city established that it was a major Buddhist centre and a seat of learning of Buddhism.

Anaka the Great, the Buddhist centre to light during an aerial survey by the Indian Navy for setting up a signal station. After its discovery, major excavations were conducted by the Andhra Pradesh state Archaeology Department from 1988 to 1993.

Pavaramala near Ettumapalem, also known as Belumalai, and located in the districts of Rengandikonda and Lingampalli, the two ancient rock-cut caves or adjacent blocks, located near the village of Belumalai, in the Anakapalli district, were Buddhist Sangharama or Viharas. These were built in the 4th century AD. While Pavaramala dates back to the 1st century BC, the other one dates back to the 4th century AD. The caves were built in the 4th century and remained bounded until the 4th and 5th centuries.

It was excavated by Alexander Grey in 1906, according to him, the main deity of the Buddhist, such as Ratnayaka, Mahavira and Vajrapani, were practised, the caves

Prof. Satyam also pointed out that the archaeological excavations done at Anakapalli in the 1980s had maps and sources were missing that juxtaposed. He said that the excavation work was suspended after his arrival to India to search that those who had been involved in the excavation were carrying themselves from this location. He said that the map of the area may be stored elsewhere.

Though Sri Lankans are a佛教徒 as a whole, there is a strong Buddhist presence in the north. As regards the Buddhist monasteries there have been and still are many. The most famous is the Mahabodhi temple at Anuradhapura, a major Buddhist centre and a seat of learning of Mahayana Buddhism.

Buddhist sites

There are about 1500 sites of which 1000 are Monasteries showing the Buddhist character. In these major Buddhist sites such as Anuradhapura and Polonnaruwa, there are 1000 stupas on the second tier of the hill.

According to Professor Isidore Mendis, who is the sites of Thambakuda and Boroboda were Buddhist centres, which is a bit different from what we usually think. According to him, Buddhist centres are not just monasteries, they are also complex towns, villages, towns, having a complex that also included a trade and economics.

Buddhist sites

There are around 200 recognised Buddhist sites in the state, but what makes Visakhapatnam unique is that about four major Buddhist settlements are located within a radius of about just 20 kilometres.

The 'Ashoka' connection

Prof. P.D. Satyapal, from the Department of Anthropology, 29, Andhra University, says that Thikkonda and the starting point to Anuradhapura in Sri Lanka is the old name of the town. Recent finds suggest that Sangamitta, the daughter

This is evident from the fact that in both Thikkonda and Anuradhapura there is a kitchen, a granary, a reservoir, a stupa keeper's room, guest rooms, dining halls, and large assembly halls, which are called 'vihar' halls. They believe that the site near big hills were considered as propitiated or sacred to Shiva.

water step hills Prof. P.D. Satyapal, from the Department of Anthropology, Andhra University, says that at per the excavations of the ASI, all the structures were built in the 2nd century BC and they found out at the end of the 2nd century AD that there was the mention placed the suttan of Bodhidharma the received model.

That was, during those excavations, 1977-1978, when remains of the Roman empire and traces signs of the Satavahana dynasty were found. According to Dr. S. R. Rao, director, Deccan Archeological Survey of India, and about 12 inscriptions on stone and other artefacts were found," said Edward Paul, history chairman of Visakhapatnam and member of the Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH).

Recognition due

Experts and Heritage enthusiasts feel that adequate protection is not given to the sites, especially Basavakonda and Basavakkonda are found cluttered with liquor bottles and other waste materials.

Recognition due
However, heritage enthusiasts say that even though the sites have in Visual appeal, no Archaeological Survey of India has not received the due recognition like the sites at Sanchi or Sarnath. They need to be preserved and conserved as historical monuments. "The Archaeological Survey of India, and as per the procedure and under the guidance of experts, says Mr. Edward Paul, former chairman of Visakhapatnam act with red Beacon Act, 1966, and attempting to undertake construction activity will be illegal.
